Monster Tuberculosis Exhibit for New York City.

New York, By November 15th the greatest exhibition on tuberculosis that has ever been gathered will be opened to the public in New York City. The exhibit, which formed part of the recent International Congress on Tuberculosis, will be shown under the auspices of the Tuberculosis Committee of the Charity Organization Society, and the Department of Health.

The exhibition consists of charts, photographs, maps, models, diagrams, and all sorts of paraphernalia that have to do with the prevention, study, or treatment of tuberculosis. Exhibits are shown from 15 different countries, and from 200 associations and individuals. All in all, the exhibition includes nearly 5,000 units. It will take 50,000 square feet of floor space and 10,000 square feet of wall space for the display of the exhibition. Ten special cars and over 1,200 packing cases are required to transport it.

During its three weeks' stay in Washington, this exhibit was viewed by fully 200,000 people. The exhibit of the Charity Organization Society, which forms but one small unit of this entire exhibition, has been viewed by over a half-million people in New York City. From these figures, and a comparison with the attendance of similar exhibitions, it is estimated by the authorities in charge of the present exhibit, that probably over a million people will see this educational display while it is in New York City.

The exhibit, as it will be shown in New York City, is unique, not only in the fact that it is the greatest of its kind ever gathered together, but also because this demonstration, collected for a purely educational purpose, is used to illustrate the dangers of only one disease. The entire exhibition publishes and carries but one message, that consumption can be cured, and that the cure for the disease is fresh air, rest and wholesome food. These simple facts are emphasized in every conceivable way.

Charts and diagrams show the fearful ravages of tuberculosis in various parts of the world. In the German exhibit, a series of small painted wooden pillars and blocks of different heights, demonstrate the comparative mortality from consumption in various groups of the people. The United States Census Bureau shows the way, indicating by a flash of electric light that someone is dying from tuberculosis in the United States every 23 minutes and thirty-six seconds; 23 every hour, and 548 every day.

Some of the most interesting exhibits are those showing the treatment of tuberculosis. One fact is emphasized, however, in every sanatorium, "shack," or dwelling-house offered as a means of treating consumption, that is that the patient must have an abundance of fresh air. Every model of buildings shown is designed to give a maximum amount of fresh air to the patient both day and night. Balconies, houses, tents, and groups of buildings of every sort show this phase of the campaign against tuberculosis.

The numerous means employed to spread the "gospel of fresh air, rest and wholesome food" are shown in pamphlets, books, photographs and, small exhibits. Hundreds of tons of literature are being prepared, distributed at the coming exhibition. Everyone who attends will be able to receive information on any side of the tuberculosis problem in any of the American or European languages.

Among the individual exhibits, which will be shown in New York City, are, which, recently received from the International Congress on Tuberculosis, prizes ranging in value from $1,000 to $100. Besides these, 44 of the exhibits to be shown were recipients of gold medals, and 43 of silver ones.

The exhibition will remain in New York City for one month. At the end of that time, it will be broken up into several units, the various states, countries, and individuals who have contributed to it, taking their respective parts with them. It is probable, however, that part of the exhibition will be shown in several other large cities of the country.

Wisconsin a Model University

The University of Wisconsin was characterized as "a state institution that can be rightly regarded as a model of its class," by President Harry A. Garfield, who has just been inducted into the presidency of Williams College. In conferring the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon President Charles R. Van Hise, President Garfield said also, "It will be through you and your university that effective aid will be given in the solution of a problem that engages the attention of the educational world—whether the pure sciences shall win for themselves the liberal arts."

International Live Stock Exposition, Chicago.

Nov. 28 to Dec. 10, 1908.

The organization of the International Live Stock Exposition at Chicago was one of the most important events in the history of the development of the live stock industry.

In December, 1907, there were on exhibition at this great show 7,823 of the finest meat and draft animals in the world, contributed by 22 states, one territory and four foreign countries.

These animals were entered in competition for more than 2,400 premiums aggregating over $75,000, offered in support of one classes of cattle, horses, sheep and swine, besides feeding house and other interesting exhibits, all of which were viewed by fully 100,000 visitors from nearly every part in the Union and foreign countries.

No such object lesson in everything that pertains to the breeding, feeding, marketing, and distribution of animals and animal products was ever previously placed before the producers and consumers in this or any other country.

The success of this great annual show has awakened much interest both at home and abroad, and a marked improvement in American stock and herds has been the result.

The object of this movement is to secure better animals for breeding, marketing and exporting, thus ensuring greater consumption of American animals and meats at home and abroad.

The "International" has been a triumphant success from its very inception, and each of its series of exhibitions has been an improvement over all previous shows.

The next great annual exhibition will be held November 28 to December 10, 1909, in the International Amphitheatre and about twenty adjoining buildings at the Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

Official correspondence with prominent breeders and feeders throughout the country demonstrates that the next show will undoubtedly be the most magnificent and successful one of the series, with a larger foreign representation than ever before. Competition bids fair to be most spirited in all breeds, and new features and attractions will be added to the many heretofore included.

No progressive farmer, feeder or breeder can afford to miss this leading annual event.

Danish Expert on White Plague

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—The successful method of controlling the white plague in cattle by separating the healthy and diseased animals, which has been developed in Denmark, was described by Dr. Bernard Bang, director of the Royal Veterinary and Agricultural College at Copenhagen, in a recent address before students of the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Prof. Bang, after careful inspection of the work on bovine tuberculosis done by the Wisconsin Experiment Station, gave the students a brief history of his efforts to control the disease in Denmark.

The essential features of his system are: first, careful testing all animals in the herd with tuberculin; and second, removal of infected animals and retention of healthy ones in quarters to prevent transmission of the disease to those unaffected; third, the destruction of stables to prevent the development of the disease through germs left by diseased animals; fourth, regular testing of the healthy herd to remove cases that may develop before they spread the disease to others; and fifth, removal of calves from cows of the infected herd at once that they may be fed at milk from the healthy cows or on pasteurized milk.

When the disease is merely local in the animal, Dr. Bang said there was a good reason for slaughtering it. Most calves from tuberculous cows, he said, are free from the disease and will continue healthy if removed from the cows at birth. It is not an expensive operation to follow this method of segregation, he demonstrated, since it has been proven that on both large and small farms the care in feeding can be so managed that infection will not be carried from the diseased to the healthy herds.

Pasteurization Commended

The pasteurization of skim milk and butter milk was urged by Dr. Bang as the only effective method of preventing the spread of tuberculosis through these agencies. In Denmark all butter is made of pasteurized cream, thus removing possibility of infection through that source. He stated that it has been demonstrated that this pasteurized cream makes butter better than the unpasteurized, and said that he believed by the careful use of pasteurization and the tuberculin test, the control of bovine tuberculosis is comparatively easy. The important thing now, he said, is to educate cattle owners to the necessity for careful supervision of all diseased animals, and the regular use of the tuberculin test.

Colds and Croup in Children.

"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. Berg, No. 41 Fifth St., Wheeling, W. Va. "Last winter she had a severe spell and a terrible cough, but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup. This remedy is for sale by Dally's Drug & Jewelry Co."

How to Cure a Cold.

Be as careful as you can when you occasionally take cold, and when you do get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have not to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Dally's Drug & Jewelry Co.

Dr. Alexander on Scrub stallion

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—The Wisconsin campaign against scrub stallions and for the improvement of horse breeding conditions in this state was described by Dr. A. S. Alexander, of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, in a series of addresses before the students of the Chicago Veterinary College. Dr. Alexander has for several years delivered a special course of lectures at that college, in which he has discussed the various matters relating to horse breeding, diseases and stallion legislation.

Plans for Farmers' Institutes.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—Plans for the Wisconsin Farmers' Institute season for 1909-10 have been completed by Superintendent George McKerron, and approved by the state university regents.

There will be 120 regular two day institutes between Dec. 8 and March 12, with a three day "round up" on March 16-18, and a special institute at Rio, Columbia County on Nov. 24-25. A cooking school will be held at Rio in the afternoon of each day, when the cooking of potatoes will be demonstrated. Some 30 cooking schools will be held during the season in connection with certain of the institutes. An edition of 10,000 copies of a "Farmers' Institute Cookbook" will be issued for free distribution at these cooking schools.

Six cores of regular workers and two of cooking school teachers will lecture during the ten weeks season. Assistance along their special lines will be given by men from the State Dairy and Food Commission, the State Horticultural Society, and the highway division of the State Geological and Natural History Survey. From over 200 applications for institutes Superintendent McKerron will select 121 for meetings, and recommend them to the board of regents. Great interest in the cooking schools has also been shown, and many requests have been made for that feature at the institutes. The Wisconsin Farmers' Institute bulletin, No. 22, a handbook of 320 pages, will be distributed free at every meeting. When approved by the regents, the list of places and dates of the institutes and cooking schools will be announced.

Feed and Fertilizer Inspection Effective.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—During the current year 214 license certificates have been issued to permit the sale of feeding stuffs in this state by the department of fertilizer and feeding stuff inspection of the Wisconsin Experiment Station at the University of Wisconsin. These licenses permit the sale of several brands of each manufacturer, in compliance with the state law. Samples of feeding stuffs are now being collected by inspectors and analyzed as rapidly as they are received at the laboratories. The results are reported immediately to the manufacturers and dealers, and are also published in bulletin form at the close of the year. As a result of this inspection work, there has been a gradual improvement in the quality of such goods since 1901, when the feed inspection law was enacted.

Some 23 licenses for the sale of different brands of commercial fertilizers have been issued, and an increase in the use of commercial fertilizers is reported. Buyers of feeding stuffs for fertilizers are reasonably safe in trusting to the guarantee printed upon the bags containing the products, but should keep themselves informed by studying the published analysis. The law provides for a penalty if the label is not accurate, within reasonable limits, so manufacturers are complying with the regulations.

NEKOOSA.

(From the Times.)

The Chicago & North-Western and the Chicago, Milwaukee St. Paul & North Pacific companies are preparing to build new depots at Port Edwards this fall, the former having already the posts and stone there for the foundation and some of the frame timbers, while the latter is getting the ground ready for its building. The Wisconsin Central will probably build a depot there in the spring. The depots are to be built at the crossing north of the present station place, at a more central point.

H. E. Davis of the town of Rome has been summoned by the game warden at Friendsville to appear and defend an action against him for catching musk rats and milk out of season, the game warden having confiscated several rats and one milk from Mr. Davis. According to Mr. Davis, the musk rats caught were destroying his dam and under the circumstances the law permits their destruction. The milk was caught in one of the traps set for rats and when found was dead.

The concert and dance given by the Nekoosa Baseball association last Tuesday evening was a huge success, a large number of people being present at the concert and the dance which followed was well attended and proved to be a due social success.

The lady troubadour who accompanied the troubadours was good and the audience appreciated her recitations. Last Sunday occurred the funeral of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hayden of the town of Port Edwards, a large number of sympathizing friends of the bereaved parents attending. Interment was made in Jesuit cemetery.

CRANBERRY NOTES

Cranberry Prices Steady.

New York, Oct. 30.—The local demand for cranberries shows no improvement. Speculators hope that cold weather will soon appear and improve things. Up to the present the local consumption has been extremely light. Weather conditions have been against it and trade here will not take much. Prices have neither declined nor shown much of an advance. Early blacks which are getting pretty well cleaned up, have been selling around $1.50 per 75, with some extra fancy stock going as high as $8. (Howes when extra good, sell 25 or 29. They have to be of high color and very fancy fruit to bring the latter figure. The majority of them are not going at $8.25 per 75. Some fancy Greenbushes, which are large berries and very fine, have brought as high as $10 this week.

Howes have been moderate since the season commenced running on an average of 500 tons a day. Advice from the Cape indicates that Early Blacks there are being held at $8.10, which is more than they are bringing here in many instances. The Jersey is selling here $7.50 or 8. While the quality of the Howes is exceptionally fine Early Blacks are showing the effect of the bad weather. Receivers are hoping for more favorable conditions. They assert that when it does come, buyers who have been holding off will have to get in the market to find that the fruit is not here for them and that prices will advance materially. The crop in Cape Cod is advancing rapidly. It is estimated that fully two-thirds of it has been shipped already. —Pittsburgh News.

YOUR OWN FACE.

Do You Think You Would Recognize It on Another Person?

"How strange it is," said the philosopher, "that the person for whom you care most on earth, the one you are closest and who receives your most constant attention is the one whose countenance is least familiar to you."

"Who is that?" asked the visitor. "Yourself," said the philosopher. "It is a fact that if people could be duplicated and could meet themselves in the mirror, very few would recognize their selves. We look at ourselves many times during the 24 hours of the day. We say our eyes are blue or whatever color they may be, our hair brown, our chin peaked, our forehead high. We know every lineament of our face from constant study and attention, yet when we turn away from the mirror we cannot picture up a picture of ourselves. We know just how our friends and even acquaintances look. In fancy we can see them sitting or standing and their varying expressions under different circumstances is clear to us, even though we have not seen them for years. But when it comes to ourselves we cannot even fill in the outline of the picture. We may laugh, we may cry, we may frown, but we do not know how we look while we are doing it. Photographs do not help us. We have never seen ourselves in the flesh. Mirrors and pictures are poor things when we sit down and try to see ourselves with the mind's eye. That is why people are so deeply interested in anybody who is said to resemble them. Just say to a man, 'I know somebody who looks for all the world like you,' and he will never rest until he sees that person. Then if the likeness is really true he will own that up to that time he had no conception of how he really looked."

The visitor smiled wistfully. "I wish you wouldn't talk like that," she said. "It makes me feel so uneasy. I am almost afraid of myself."

WHEN FIRE BREAKS OUT.

Keep Cool and Remember and Follow These Instructions.

In case of fire, if the burning articles are at once splashed and sprayed with a solution of salt and nitrate of ammonia an inflammable coating is formed. This is a preparation which can be made at home at a trifling cost and should be kept on hand. Dissolve twenty pounds of common salt and ten pounds of nitrate of ammonia in seven gallons of water. Pour this into quart bottles of thin glass and fire grenades are at hand and ready for use. These bottles must be tightly corked and sealed to prevent evaporation, and in case of fire they must be thrown near the flames, so as to break and liberate the gas contained. At least two dozen of these bottles should be ready for an emergency.

In this connection it is well to remember that water running off scalds the flames, but that floor will extend the fire. Salt thrown upon a fire if the chimney is burning will help to smother the blaze. If a fire once gets under headway and prompt exit becomes a necessity, a silk handkerchief dipped in water and wrapped about the mouth and nostrils will prevent suffocation from smoke; falling this, a piece of wet damask will answer.

Should smoke fill the room, reach your physics—remember that smoke goes first to the top of the room and last to the floor. Wrap a blanket or woolen garment about you, with the wet cloth over your face, drop on your hands and knees and crawl to the window. Beware in that there is no more danger in getting down from a three story window than from the first floor if you keep a firm hold of the rope or ladder. Do not slide, but go hand over hand.—New York Tribune
